FRENCH NAVAL CO-OPERATION WITH BRITAIN IN EVENT OF WAR

ITALIAN ADVANCE ON MAKALE

VICTORY LIKELY TO PROVE COSTLY

SITUATION NOW APPEARS TO BE FAVOURABLE FOR ETHIOPIANS

Addis Ababa, To-day.

The situation at the front now appears to be developing favourably for the Ethiopians. It is reliably learned that the Italians are advancing down the valley of the Sulla River and their advance guards are believed to have reached a point near Adamosso, 40 miles north of Makale.

It is not yet known whether the Ethiopians intend seriously to defend Makale, but it will be a more difficult town to take than Adowa.

Should the Italians capture Makale they will then probably spend some time fortifying the city as the country to the south-west and South is of the most difficult nature over the fever-ridden Lacaze Desert a natural barrier to any advance towards Lake Tana, while the caravan route to the south of Makale is lined with heights from which the Ethiopians, who are guerilla fighters, could wreak havoc on convoys.

Later: The Italians have machine-gunned and bombed Makale, states an Abyssinian official communique. There were 60 casualties.

Rome: A message from Asmara states that the resumption of the Italian offensive south of Adowa is now likely any day. Makale is the next objective. Thousands of labourers protected by aircraft are feverishly extending the road and water-supply system for the advance.

Mussolini's Son Has Narrow Escape

Rome: Premier Mussolini's elder son Vittorio has had his baptism of fire. While flying over the Abyssinian lines yesterday, his machine was fired on and hit by bullets. Like his brother, however, he was able to bring back the plane safely.—Reuter.

FRANCO-ITALIAN MILITARY PACT

Declared Unaltered By Circumstances

FRENCH PRESS COMMENT

—CHINA MAIL—SPECIAL

Paris, To-day. France's military agreement with Italy is still the same as hitherto, declares the Figaro, "on the authority of a very high military personage," thus confirming the rumour that Italy had requested new assurances from France for the defence of the Brenner Pass.

There are no alterations in the dispositions for guarding the Alpine frontiers, the journal continues, since, despite the East African campaign, Italy's military strength in Europe is very great. Even the thought of tension between France and Italy is so absurd that it is not worth mentioning. Any interference by France in the purely colonial Abyssinian affair, therefore, concludes the Figaro, is completely impossible.

DUCE WARNED
While also stressing France's friendship for Italy the editor of Le Jour issues a grave warning to Signor Mussolini that the hour for weighty decisions has now arrived.

The main thing is to prevent a European war and Le Jour throws out a hint that if Duce certainly has enough power and self-confidence to make, in the cause of peace, sacrifices he considers to be compatible with the dignity of his country.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NEW DECREE IN ATHENS

Athens, To-day. The War Minister and the Home Minister have now been empowered to intern pensioned army officers in the interests of public peace, according to a new decree issued by the Greek Government yesterday.—Trans-Ocean Service.

ITALIAN SHIP GUTTED

Explosion In Boiler Room At Alexandria

BRITISH BLUEJACKETS TO THE RESCUE

London, To-day. The 13,000-ton Italian liner a.s. Ausonia took fire after an explosion in the boiler-room yesterday morning in the outer harbour at Alexandria. The fire spread rapidly to all parts of the vessel. An Alexandria message states that sailors from H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth, Valiant, Revenge and Saraphire took off passengers in picket boats.

Four of the crew were killed and about a dozen seriously injured. It is feared that the vessel is a total loss.

The highest tributes have been paid by the Ausonia's officers to the magnificent work of the bluejackets from the British warships in rescuing both passengers and members of the crew.—British Wireless Service.

Italian Ship Searched

Rome, To-day. The Italian steamer Marta was held up and searched by a British destroyer in the Red Sea yesterday, according to a message from Port Sudan.

In answer to the protests made by the captain of the Italian vessel, the message states, the commander of the British warship explained that he had wished to find out whether the steamer was sailing under a false flag or not.

Great Public Festivities

Bucharest, To-day. The first train on the resumed railway service between Rumania and Russia crossed the Dujesto bridge, joining Tigina on the Rumanian side and Transil on the Russian side, where the event was celebrated with great public festivities.—Trans-Ocean Service.

PEACE EFFORTS CONTINUED BY THREE POWERS

Britain's Case Again Outlined

ITALIAN MISCONCEPTION OF ATTITUDE

London, To-day.

While in Geneva the work of technical preparation of the proposals for submission to the League Committee, co-ordinating measures for application against Italy is going on steadily, diplomatic exchanges on other aspects of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and of the efforts of the League powers to restore peace have taken place in Paris and London.

In Paris the French Premier, M. Laval, is reported to have seen both the Italian and British Ambassadors yesterday.

In London the Italian Ambassador, Signor Grandi, was received by the Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, on Thursday. It is understood that the Ambassador's attention was drawn to the grave misconceptions which appear to have gained credence in Italy regarding the British position in the dispute.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR INTERVIEWS DUCE

SATISFACTION EXPRESSED

Rome, To-day.

Signor Mussolini received the French, Argentine and British Ambassadors in turn yesterday, the greatest importance being attached here to the latter interview. Although no statement has yet been published on the matters discussed, it is learned from well-informed quarters that reference was made to the proposal, attributed to M. Laval, that the British fleet be withdrawn from the Mediterranean, contingent on the British condition of reduction in the strength of the Italian troops now concentrated along the Egyptian frontier.

The interview took a satisfactory course, it is understood, and in British circles it is stated that, contrary to the usual diplomatic procedure, the official communique on the conversation was to be published either late last night or early this morning.

Shipments Reported From Batavia

METAL EXCHANGE COMMUNIQUE

London, To-day.

Regarding tin Messrs. Henry Rogers and Co., brokers, yesterday issued the following communique from the Metal Exchange: "On behalf of the Dutch tin-mining interests we are authorised to state that Batavia has available and ready for shipment 1,500 tons of tin and if necessary considerably more. Of this amount 200 tons are already on the way and further quantities will be shipped in the next few days. Should circumstances warrant it all will be shipped to London."

In addition the Billiton Company has already shipped a quantity to England and will continue to do so up to about 500 tons, in order to relieve the cash position.—Reuter.

WEATHER FORECAST

Cloudy weather, with local showers and light to moderate east and north-easterly winds, was the forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory this morning.

NAVAL CONFERENCE IN LONDON

Good Prospects Of Being Held This Year

London, To-day.

There is now a good prospect that the Naval Conference may be held in London this year. Japan informed the Foreign Office yesterday that, while still adhering to her views on naval limitation, she was prepared to enter the conference. All the Naval Powers who signed the London and Washington treaties have now intimated their willingness to attend the conference.—Reuter.

GENERAL DEVERELL Appointed Chief Of Imperial Staff

London, To-day.

General Sir C. J. Deverell, K.C.B., A.D.C. General to H.M. the King, has been appointed chief of the Imperial Staff, to succeed General Sir A. A. Montgomery-Massingbergh, effective from April.—Reuter.

Shipping Schedules Revised

Hamburg, to-day.—Genoa, Port Sudan and Djibouti will no longer be ports of call for the steamers of the German-African lines, either on the outward or the return trip, states an announcement issued by the company yesterday, the reason, given, being the increasing tension of the political situation. The steamer Waghai, which

AFFIRMATIVE REPLY TO BRITISH NOTE

MEDITERRANEAN CRISIS MAY BE AVERTED

CONDITIONAL WITHDRAWAL OF EXTRA BRITISH TONNAGE

Paris, To-day.

The British Ambassador last evening received the French reply to the British query as to naval support by France in the event of an attack by Italy. The reply was in the affirmative on all points.

M. Laval's affirmative reply to the British enquiry as to whether France would co-operate with the British fleet in the event of an attack by Italy has been received with great satisfaction in London where in official circles it is regarded as a satisfactory answer and indispensable to friendly co-operation with France.

At Geneva it is understood that Britain is now willing to consider the withdrawal of some of the extra tonnage concentrated in the Mediterranean. It is understood that for the British fleet to be reduced to a normal footing in the Mediterranean two conditions would have to be fulfilled; firstly, Italy would have to withdraw her extra-troops from Libya and secondly there would have to be "sensible improvements in the general situation," by which is meant that Italian press attacks on Britain must cease. Though it is not impossible that the two conditions may later be fulfilled, no understanding has yet been reached between the British and Italian Governments.

Paris, Earlier: It is understood that the text of the French reply to the British query concerning naval support was to be handed to the British Ambassador last night.

It is stated, in authoritative French circles that the reply "dissipates all misunderstandings between France and Britain" and that France is prepared to carry out her obligations under paragraph 3 of Article XVI of the Covenant stipulating for mutual assistance in crises attendant upon applying sanctions.

EXPECTED ANSWER
London, earlier.—The French answer to the British enquiry in regard to naval support if the fleet were attacked is expected on Monday after the meeting of the French Cabinet. It is confidently expected that the answer will be in the affirmative.

It is officially stated that Britain never raised the question of military sanctions with M. Laval or elsewhere, also that Britain had no idea of closing the Suez Canal or enforcing a blockade against Italy. Britain contemplated completely fulfilling her League obligations and co-operation with other nations but no action except collective action will be taken.

NEW HOPES
Rome: Hope of another peace move was aroused by the visit of Sir Eric Drummond to the Duce yesterday morning, following a similar visit by the French Ambassador on Tuesday and the Paris report that M. Laval saw Baron Cerruti yesterday.

Subsequently it was authoritatively stated that diplomatic conversations were proceeding between Paris and Rome and Paris and London, with nothing specific at present, but the fact that conversations were continuing proved that not all doors were shut.—Reuter.

DUKE OF BUCCLEUCH PASSES

Father Of Fiancee Of Prince Henry

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY AT MIDNIGHT

London, To-day.

The death is announced of the Duke of Buccleuch, father of Lady Alice Scott, fiancée of H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester. A bulletin states that the Duke of Buccleuch passed away quite suddenly at Bowhill at five minutes after midnight. The Duchess and all the family were present at the bedside.—Reuter.

The Dukedom of Buccleuch, of which the late John Charles Montagu-Douglas-Scott, J.P., D.L., K.T. was the seventh holder, was created by Charles II in 1663.

The late Duke held, in addition, the titles of Baron Scott of Buccleuch (cr. 1606), Earl of Buccleuch, Baron Scott of Whitchester and Eskdail (cr. 1619), Earl of Doncaster and Baron Tynedale (Eng. 1662), Earl of Dalkeith (cr. 1663), Duke of Queensberry, Marquis of Dumfriesshire, Earl of Drumlanrig and Sanquhar, Viscount of Nith. ROYAL WEDDING

To Be Held Privately In Palace Chapel

London, To-day.

H.M. the King yesterday announced with deep regret that, owing to the serious illness of the Duke of Buccleuch, the marriage ceremony of H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester and Lady Alice Scott will be held privately in the chapel of Buckingham Palace instead of at Westminster Abbey on November 6.—Reuter.

TREASURY BILLS ISSUE

London, to-day.—The total amount applied for in tenders for £400,000,000 Treasury bills was £25,470,000. The average rate per cent for bills at three months was 12/10 1/2, as against 12/1 1/2 a week ago.—British Wireless Service.

The assassination of Huey Long last month was the only notable one in recent years cameras have missed. The handwork of four celebrated assassins is here shown. Top: Mayor Gaynor of New York the moment after he was shot aboard ship (L); cavalymen beating down the assailant (arrow) of King Alexander of Yugoslavia at Marseilles. Below: President Doumer of France (L) after he was fatally wounded; and Mayor Cermak of Chicago after receiving the bullet aimed at President-elect Roosevelt at Miami, Florida.

Mrs. Alice Lee Grosjean Tharpe, former secretary to the late Senator Huey Long and the present all-powerful State supervisor of public accounts, now holds the balance of power in the political machine built up by the late Kingfish as his lieutenants struggle for dominance. She is responsible for the disposition of half of the State's revenue.

Cinema Notes

"CURLY TOP"—KING'S THEATRE

From the dull and drab life of a small town orphanage to a sunny, palatial mansion in Southampton, adequately sums up the quick rise to luxury and happiness enjoyed by Shirley Temple in her new picture "Curly Top."

In this new Fox Film comedy-drama with music, Shirley, together with Rochelle Hudson, who portrays the role of her big sister, are adopted by John Boles and taken from an orphanage to his palatial summer home.

Shirley and Rochelle enter upon their new life with all the joy of two youngsters in a dreamland of happiness. Shirley's new-found happiness blossoms forth into laughter, song and dance, and soon her charm and childish pranks form the foundation of a delightful romance between Boles and Rochelle Hudson.

Shirley's talents are given full sway and audiences will come under her enchanting spell when she sings "Animal Crackers in My Soup" and "When I Grow Up."

John Boles sings two of the hit numbers in the film. They are: "It's All So New To Me" and the theme number, "Curly Top." Rochelle Hudson, who makes her singing debut in this picture, sings "The Simple Things in Life."

"WINGS IN THE DARK"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

Another aeroplane story, yet one that is vastly different from any other ever produced, is today's attraction at the Queen's Theatre, where "Wings in the Dark" is being screened.

Instead of dealing with the destructive side of aviation, this picture has for its background the efforts of a young airman, portrayed by Gary Grant, to perfect "blind" flying. There is a welcome absence of those scenes which show planes crashing to their doom in flames.

Tragedy is introduced when, on the eve of achievement, the young inventor is blinded in an accident. The disappointment he has to endure in putting aside his life ambition because of this cruel stroke of fate is, however, relieved by the devotion of the woman he loves, a role which is capably handled by Myrna Loy, who departs for the first time in many years from the comedy-drama film.

"PRIVATE WORLDS"—STAR THEATRE

A challenging messenger to those who fear and do not understand love is contained in the story of Paramount's "Private Worlds," an enthralling psychological drama.

Adapted from the widely read Phyllis Bottome novel of the same name, and acted by Claudette Colbert, Charles Boyer, Joel McCrea, Joan Bennett and Helen Vinson, "Private Worlds" peers into the remote nooks and crannies of the mind to expose the fears, complexes and inhibitions that are the real villains of romance.

An isolated hospital for the insane is the strange and dramatic background of this film. In it is worked out the life dramas of a little group of people, doctors who administer to the mental ills of others, yet who fail to understand their own minds and hearts.

"RUGGLES OF RED GAP"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

Charles Laughton, is assisted by five of Hollywood's leading comedy players in Paramount's "Ruggles of Red Gap." They are Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, Roland Young, Zasu Pitts and Leila Hyams.

The picture opens in London when Egbert Froud, a rough diamond from America, wins "Ruggles," the perfect butler-valet, from his titled master in a poker game.

In America "Ruggles" masquerades as a Colonel in the English Army, becomes the lion of Red Gap society, and is infected with the democratic idea himself.

BRIDGE NOTES

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION

By Ely Culbertson

Before offering my new streamlined model of 1935 bidding system, I gathered together in conference some of the foremost experts. Each new feature of the proposed method was carefully analysed and checked against every possible exigency. On one contentious point two of the councilors held diametrically opposed views and I encouraged them to thrash out the subject.

After a full half hour discussion, the disputants seemed to agree on the essential principles and a recess was taken with high hopes for a reconciliation on the entire issue.

Alas! On returning to the question it was found both had argued their respective cases too well. Each had convinced the other. They had exchanged their battle-flags and were again dead-locked.

That threw the matter into the voting box and we settled it by rule of majority.

Co-operating Opponents

Time and again hopeless appearing contracts are made by alert declarers through the simple process of enlisting the co-operation—even though it is unwilling—of the opponents. Sometimes these opponents are caught in the mesh of a squeeze, coup or end-play, and cannot avoid giving the declarer that extra trick he needs.

On other occasions, however, the declarer can only hope to get the defence to stray from the straight and narrow path of proper play and make the fatal error which will give him his contract. This occurred in the hand below:

"TIMES SQUARE LADY"—MAJESTIC THEATRE

"Times Square Lady" tells a poignantly beautiful story of a young country girl who goes to New York and is swiftly caught in the vortex of life there. The role of the girl is taken by lovely Virginia Bruce, and the man she falls in love with is Robert Taylor.

The settings for the film have been elaborately carried out, and in turn we are introduced to all the attractions of modern life. Isobel Jewell sings frequently during the course of the picture.

"MICKEY MOUSE VARIETIES"—ALHAMBRA THEATRE

To-day and to-morrow Kowloon's popular first run house, the Alhambra will show a selection of new Mickey Mouse cartoons. This type of programme received a very favourable response from the public when tried by the Hong Kong theatres, and should make as wide an appeal in Kowloon.

Old and young alike find something very amusing in Mickey, probably one of the greatest fun creations of recent years, and as the films are separated by one or two of the "Betty Boop" and "Popeye the Sailor" series monotony is avoided.

THREEPENCE BID FOR COW

for STAMP COLLECTORS

By A. E. L.

THE June and July issues of the T.C.M.S. contains an interesting study on the defects of the Hong Kong Georgian issues, parts of which is reproduced below.

1. The broken crown. SE 50. This is the most spectacular of all Georgian defects. It is amusing to know that although there are always many people in Hong Kong interested in stamps, this marked variety was discovered outside the colony, some say in Japan, others say in England, and it was only when applications came in from outside for this stamp, that the local people became aware of what they were missing.

The defect occurred in a consignment of 4,000 sheets in 1917 bearing the registration letter F. No doubt many of these stamps were rejected before being discovered, otherwise it would be more plentiful than it is.

The damage consists of the loss of the right side of the crown except for the circlet and flower upon it. Also the orb and some of the ornament upon it in the mid-line is missing.

This defect must have been very soon noticed by the printers, for it does not appear to exist on any other value, as is the case generally with headpiece defects.

It does, however, exist on the "CHINA" overprinted stamp of the same value. Both varieties are catalogued by Gibbons (100b and 1a).

POSTAL DEFECTS

26. CUT on scalp. NW 48. Cut about 2 mm. long commencing just above the head in the midline, running downwards to the left. Must have occurred many years ago, for it may be found on both M. CA. and Script issues.

27. Cut on scalp. NW 5. Very similar to No. 26, but the cut is more horizontal. Known only on the 1c and 2c Postmarks early in 1932. Defect was re-

1—A shaded raise but justifiable for defensive purposes. 2—South could not know the weakness of his partner's raise, and consequently contracted for game without any further ado.

The Play
West chose as his opening lead the spade deuce, the eight was played from dummy and East's Queen was topped by declarer's Ace. South made a very speedy survey of the situation. It took him no more than a few seconds to see he had four certain losers, even if trumps broke, with practically no hope of eliminating any of them. South saw one possibility, however.

At Trick 2 after winning the spade Ace, South immediately returned a low spade, not stopping to draw trumps. To do so would give the defence time to collect themselves and plan ahead. But South wasting no time, caught West literally flat-footed. The latter carelessly marked his partner with the spade King and mechanically did not go up with his Jack. It did not occur to him that declarer with the King of spades in his hand and only one left in dummy could possibly lead a low card of the suit rather than the King.

Of course, the spade ten held the trick, and after trumps were drawn South's spade King provided a discard for one of dummy's clubs. As a result South lost only three tricks in the minor suits and fulfilled his contract.

Incidentally, South's tricky play was one which could (and actually did) gain but could not possibly lose, barring accidents from freak distribution. Even if West had kept awake and gone up with the spade Jack, South still would have avoided one club loser by using the spade King for a discard, just as he did. Then he would have gone down one trick—the normal result.

Tibet.—The 1 cheley stamps of the 1933 issue is printed on a very thick native paper quite distinct from that of earlier arrivals, which was, in some cases, so thin as to be almost transparent. Among a quantity of the 1 and 2 franc stamps our Publishers discovered a few pairs of each value which were printed together in the form of what amount to "miniature sheets," i.e. with narrow margins between the two stamps and wide margins around them. It is evident that these Tibet stamps are full of interest. Anything may turn up, for it is obvious that the Tibetan authorities consider of little importance those matters of sheet size, perforation, shade, etc. which are the strict care of the world's more modern postal officials.

MRS. TAYLOR AND MRS. CATE WIN

Shanghai Ladies' Doubles Title

RUSSIAN PAIR'S GALLANT BUT UNAVAILING EFFORT

Shanghai, October 12.

Mrs. Cate and Mrs. Taylor won the lawn tennis doubles Shanghai championship yesterday by defeating Mrs. Dvorjetsky and Miss Bocharoff 6-2, 6-4. Mrs. Cate played an excellent game and her decisive net play and placing was largely responsible for the victory of her combination.

In the opening set, the first four games were evenly divided at 2-2. Rosslyn Park, playing determined from which point the ultimate footfall, had, especially towards winners went forward and captured the close, by far the better of the next four games in a no uncertain manner for set.

INTERESTING RUGBY CLASHES TO-DAY

POSSIBLE POINTER FOR TRIANGULAR TOURNEY

MANY NEWCOMERS ON VIEW

(By "Referee")

PROVIDING the present weather keeps fine rugby of a fairly high standard will probably be witnessed on the Club ground this afternoon when the Club first fifteen and the Army meet in a friendly clash and the Club "A" fifteen engage a team from H.M.S. Medway.

With the majority of the China Fleet away from the Colony it looks very much as if the Triangular Tournament this season will revolve round the Club and the Army, and to-day's encounter should provide some indication of the probable strength of either team.

With the influx of newcomers to both the Club and Army, some very keen encounters should be witnessed throughout the coming season.

With McElney back in the pack and with several newcomers among the three-quarters and halves, the Club may record their first win, although the Army team should fully extend them.

Well Distributed

An outstanding feature of this season's Army eleven is that, unlike when the Borderers were in the Colony, the strength of the fifteen has been drawn from various units and not from one regiment.

The Royal Engineers and the Royal Artillery have both contributed towards the complement of the Army side and with the return of Hebert to the Army pack, and the inclusion of Powell, of the Sappers, among the backs some good play is expected this afternoon.

Many Newcomers

The Club "A" fifteen is composed almost entirely of newcomers with the exception of Cox and McGugan and it will be interesting to see how they fare against the fairly strong team from the Medway, which will probably be led by Benson, undoubtedly last season's outstanding centre-three-quarter.

The following are the teams—
Club First XV—L. G. Robertson (captain), W. H. B. Rigg, A. M. W. Scott, R. Edwards and H. R. McGugan; A. H. E. Butcher and H. C. Meeker; A. F. Walker, W. E. Peene, E. P. Humphreys, T. H. McElney, R. D. G. Barlow, M. S. Cumming, S. H. Garrod and E. G. M. Deane.
Club "A" XV—F. C. B. Black, L. J. A. Fieldon, C. J. Powell, K. R. Aires, and D. A. Hynes; G. S. Wilson, and J. L. Bonnar (Captain); D. Paul, J. S. Dunnett, G. H. Brett, B. Peene, A. K. Forsyth, A. R. Cox, G. C. Humphreys, and F. J. McGugan.

BOWLS SEASON TO CLOSE TO-DAY

Aitkenhead Shield Match At Valley

DINNER AND PRESENTATION OF PRIZES AT C.C.C.

The annual fixture which marks the closing of the local bowling season—the Aitkenhead Shield match between two teams, one consisting of Kowloon bowlers, and the other of Hong Kong players—will take place at Happy Valley this afternoon, on the Craigengower, Police and Civil Service greens.

It is likely that there will be several changes in both teams, out any vacancies that occur will be filled just before the match begins, from players who are present as spectators.

After the match a dinner will be held in the Craigengower C.C. and the prizes won in the various Open competitions will be presented. Mr. H. Nish, president of the H.K.B.A., will preside.

The captain of the Kowloon team is R. Duncan, and B. W. Bradbury is captain of the Hong Kong team.

NAVY TEAMS MAKE THEIR DEBUTS

STIFF HURDLE FOR EAST LANCES. AT KOWLOON

SAINTS' ACID TEST TO-MORROW

(By "Rover")

THE debut of the Royal Navy in both divisions and the clash between the Police, the present leaders in the Senior Division, and the East Lanes, still fancied in many quarters as one of the best teams in the Senior League, provide the most interesting features in to-day's local League football programme.

The Navy, who are at home to the Club, are said to have gathered a very strong team together, in fact, better than any that has represented the Navy for a number of seasons.

The Club, who will be without the services of Gamble, are fielding their best possible team. Hill, who has recently returned from Shanghai, will partner Strange at back, while Sykes has been dropped.

In the forward line several positional changes have been made, and the attack will have to give a better display than they did last Saturday if they hope to achieve success.

Most Exciting Game

Perhaps the most interesting and exciting game in the First Division will be witnessed on the Kowloon ground when the Police, last year's runners-up, meet the greatly improved East Lanes team.

The Police will be fielding their regular team with McHardy returning to the side in place of Minter.

The East Lanes made a bad start this season, when they were badly trounced by South China "A" in their opening game, but they have since done very well.

Should Not Ease Up

It would be well for the Recreio not to take things too easily against Lyeemum, whom they meet at Sookumpoo.

The Portuguese have been forced to field two reserves to take the places of Delgado and Castilho, but A. V. Gosano's return will strengthen the team.

Lyeemum, though defeated by four clear goals by the Police last Sunday, should do better to-day, as they were badly handicapped by an injury to Morton, their centre-half, who was a passenger last week. If Morton is fit the Lyeemum defence may be able to keep the Recreio forwards out.

In the other game in the First Division Kowloon meet Stonecutters, and a very even game should result.

To-morrow's Games

St. Joseph's will be given an acid test to-morrow when they meet the Fusiliers at Causeway Bay in their Senior Division clash.

Both teams have not yet lost a game, though the Fusiliers have met more formidable opposition so far.

The defences of both sides are the mainstays of the teams, and the Saints' diminutive forwards will have to play better than they did last week against the Recreio if they hope to score against the soldiers.

THE BOAT RACE

OXFORD INTENT ON REVERSING THEIR DEFEATS

EARLY START IN TRAINING

ONLY THREE OLD BLUES AVAILABLE

London, September 21.

Although the boat race will not be held till March or April, 1936, Oxford are intent on reversing their long series of defeats (Oxford last won in 1923) and have already begun training.

This is the earliest start in training in the boat races history.

Usually both Universities await the beginning of the Michaelmas term (about mid-October) and then spend a period of trial eights before selecting possible Blues for beginning the boat race training in earnest.

LIGHT BLUES' LOSS

MAJOR H. G. COMBER PASSES

WONDERFUL WAR RECORD

The death of Major Henry Gordon Comber, treasurer of Pembroke College, Cambridge, removes from sport a romantic figure.

He was known to all Cambridge undergraduates as "the old man." The affection for him was very great.

Treasurer of the Cambridge hockey club, president of the Rugby club, treasurer of the cricket club, and president of lawn tennis—he acted in all those capacities at one time or another.

His Birthday Party

He used to give a birthday party at Cambridge every November. It was one of the "big events" in the calendar, and the old Blues and young Blues would be there in force.

In the war he was an intelligence officer, and was three times mentioned in despatches, and awarded the D.S.O. He was unmarried, but it was a great joy to him when his adopted son, J. T. H. Comber, won his cricket Blue.

Leicesters' Hundred Points In First Four Matches Of Season

London, October 10.

Often beaten for possession in the set scrums and forced to concede an equal share of the play to Waterloo, Leicester still managed to win handsomely by two placed goals, one dropped goal, three penalty goals, and one try to one placed goal and one dropped goal.

The secret of Leicester's success which brought their total points for the first four matches of the season past the one hundred mark, lay in the place-kicking of Hodgson, who kicked all three penalty goals and converted two tries.

Clever work by Gadney and Slow gave Sheppard the opening try, and before half-time Barr dropped a goal from 45 yards, and Hodgson placed two penalty goals for Leicester and Foulds dropped a goal for Waterloo.

In the second half Hodgson converted a try by Slow, kicked his third penalty goal, and added the major points to a try by Obolen-

Dangerous Wing

Roberts, the Fusilier left-winger, is developing into a dangerous player. He centres neatly and can shoot well, while Hussain, the Saints' right half, in spite of his many excellent displays to date, will have a hard task in marking him.

In the Second Division, a good game should result when the Fusiliers encounter the R.A.O.C. and R.A.S.C. at Chatham Road.

The Fusiliers, after their great win over the Engineers the previous week, were badly surprised by the Easterns who held them to a draw.

A. Quinn, above, who played for the Saints in the First Division in the latter part of last season, is now keeping goal for the Liga Portuguesa.

CLEVER YOUNG TENNIS GIRLS AT WIMBLEDON

PROMISE SEEN IN 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL

HANCOCK'S NARROW SHAVE IN BOY'S EVENT

(By BRUCE HARRIS)

London, September 20. An invitation to "Come and see the prettiest mover of the whole show," greeted me at Junior Wimbledon to-day. The small girl referred to was Miss Muriel Bray, of Chesham, Surrey, who was beating Miss M. A. Lane, a bigger girl from Devon, by 4-6, 4-6, 6-4. Without being as ecstatic about her as my friend, it was easy to see promise in this small player of 15 years from Surrey.

Her footwork has the ease and daintiness of Miss Mary Healey, and her strokes are nicely produced. She did well to beat an opponent who "mixed things up" very well and who almost cleared away a 1-5 deficit in the first set.

Miss Joy Cox, of Surrey, and Miss Valerie Scott, of Bedfordshire, two of the favourites for the Girls' title, both won their third round matches with celerity. So did that prominent Middlesex candidate, Miss A. P. Cardinal—in her case a love-love match.

Newcomer

A newcomer to the tournament is Miss Audrey King, of the West Middlesex club, who also scored a victory without losing a game. A mild surprise was the defeat of Miss J. L. MacLachlan, of Middlesex, by Miss F. J. S. Clarke, who comes from Suffolk, is only 15½, serves underhand, and is supremely steady.

In the boys' singles C. J. Howell, favourite despite his lapse in the Surrey tournament last week, had an easier match than yesterday in beating a younger opponent in H. M. Cox.

The left-hand champion of Middlesex, H. T. Baxter, had in A. H. Campbell a small adversary who stood up pluckily to a battering during two 6-4 sets in Baxter's favour. Both Surrey finalists of last week, J. A. T. Hancock, the winner, and W. I. Brooks, came to-day into the last eight. Hancock's victory was a shaky one from G. L. Emmett, of Muswell Hill, two years his junior, who won the first set and led 5-3, 30-0 in the second.

"Barn-Doored" Victory

Hancock "barn-doored" his way to victory, but he will have to volley and generally speed up his game if his tennis is to develop.

N. W. Nicholson, the Essex champion, emulated his County cricket team by overthrowing Yorkshire in the sturdy person of B. Boyds. Nicholson, a left-hander, who lobs adroitly was just too steady for a keen volleyer whose smashes often went wrong.

THREE BRITISH VICTORIES

Oslu.

British athletes gained three victories in an international meeting here. W. Rangeley won the 100 metres in 10 5/10sec. R. Graham took the 1,500 metres in 3min 58 4/10sec, and W. Roberts won the 400 metres in 1 1/8-10sec. T. M. Riddell finished second to Graham in the 1,500 metres.

FIRST DEFEAT SINCE 1905 SEASON

GLORIOUS FORWARD PLAY FEATURED

3-4-1 SCRUM UNPROFITABLE

(By "Leighton")

London, October 10.

TO Swansea fell the distinction of inflicting upon the New Zealanders the first defeat of the tour, the Welsh club scoring a goal and two tries to a try, eleven points to three.

This defeat was the first suffered by a New Zealand team in Great Britain since Dec. 16, 1905, when at Cardiff, a try by E. T. Morgan gave Wales the victory by three points to nothing over Gallagher's team.

It was also only the second defeat suffered by the All Blacks in the course of sixty-eight engagements, covering three visits to these isles. During the last tour—in 1924—however, the New Zealanders went very near to defeat from Swansea, for not until late in the game did Wallace, with a grand left-foot dropped goal from forty yards, reply to a try by Scrines during the opening half.

I do not know whom to give most praise to. The team as a whole played together superbly, and it is significant that the Tourists have been beaten by the first club side they have played. Fore and aft the parts fitted in admirably, but I must pick out the forwards and the two by now famous Swansea half-backs, W. H. T. Davies and H. Tanner.

Glorious To Watch

It was glorious football to watch that these forwards played, led splendidly as they were by E. Long, who had in the Navy man D. J. Tarr a most successful hooker.

Tarr must have got the ball four times out of five, and on the few occasions that he did not get the ball the forwards broke up so quickly that the New Zealanders were quite prevented from developing any of their spectacular back movements.

Dicky Owen's Successor

Both the two young half-backs were superb, and Tanner especially. This is the best scrum half I have seen in Wales for years, and it is fitting that he should be playing for the late "Dicky" Owen's old club.

His passing was perfect (and what an asset this is), but he had football sense enough to go on his own so cleverly and with such dash that eventually the New Zealanders were completely non-plussed, and did not seem to know whether to go for him or the ball. Well done! Davies and Tanner, worthy successors of Owen and Jones!

Five Full Back

I could name all the other backs, for all were triers; but it would not be fair to omit mention of Edryd Jones, the full-back, who played a beautiful game, and the resourceful Claude Davey, who helped himself to two tries. 'Twas a famous victory!

How the Tourists played can be judged from what I have said about their opponents. But they were rather at sixes and sevens against such stern opponents. Their forwards are not yet good enough, and they still confuse matters for themselves by adopting a formation that they cannot use to full advantage. Moreover, they still are slow. But J. E. Manchester, the captain, made a really heroic effort to pull his men together and played a grand game himself.

Claude Davey Scores Twice

The New Zealanders persisted in their 3-4-1 scrum formation, but it proved unprofitable against an eight possessing the fire and enthusiasm of the Welshmen.

Pepper, Manchester (the captain), and Collins now and again led dangerous-looking rushes, but in actual scrambling, the tourists' forwards were overplayed.

NOON WINS LLANGATTOCK GOLF BOWL

G. S. Noon (Glamorgan) won the Llangatnock Bowl at the Welsh Golfing Union's meeting at Tenby, with rounds of 78 and 75. R. M. de Lloyd (Aberystwyth) and A. A. Duncan (Oxford University) tied for second place with 166.

Six Months' Training

Twenty-five oarsmen to coxes have been selected for this pre-term training and called to Henley where they will spend a fortnight's training under the coaching of Mr. Peter Haig-Thomas their 1935 coach, and previously coach for Cambridge for 7 years. Thereafter they will take up residence in Oxford in preparation for the beginning of the full term and continue training uninterruptedly till the race—making a total period of training of a little over six months.

When the oarsmen are settled down they will be divided into three training crews, Mr. H. H. Mosley, the 1935 O.U.B.C. President helping Mr. Haig-Thomas in coaching.

Old Blues

There are only three Old Blues available for the Oxford crew for the 1935 boat race. They are R. Hope, D. M. R. Winsor and B. J. Sciortino.

On the other hand Cambridge are able to put five of their 1935 winning crew into the race.

Fine Fight

In the second, and what proved to be the final set, the two Russian ladies put up a fine fight yielding only one of the first five games and that to Mr. Taylor on her service. Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Cate weakened in the opening games of this set, particularly in the matter of placing.

They pulled themselves together in the sixth game, however, and Mrs. Cate once more came up to the net with great effectiveness. The tide turned against the Russians from this moment and the remaining five games for set and championship fell in quick succession to Mrs. Cate and Mrs. Taylor.

Bombay, September 30. On Saturday the M.C.C. team for N. Zealand and Australia embarked at Tilbury on the Orion and will arrive in Colombo on October 19 to play against All-Ceylon.

News arrived today from London that one of the team, N. S. Mitchell Innes, the brilliant Oxonian, who played for England in one of the Tests last season, will arrive in Colombo on Sunday, October 13 by the P. and O. Mooltan and will await the arrival of the rest of the team.

STARTLING TALES ABOUT SOVIET SOCCER

Amazing Wins Over French Teams

FOOTBALL SPREADING FAST IN RUSSIA

(By GEOFFREY SIMPSON)

London, October 2.

Somehow I never imagined the Russians as a nation of footballers, but on Monday some startling stories of the prowess of Soviet player were told to me in Manchester.

The teller was a French acquaintance who was in the Lancashire city for the Benny Lynch fight. He said that there was in France a Russian touring team playing football of a standard of which many British sides might feel pleased.

Russian's Surprise

Against Red Star, one of the leading professional clubs in Paris, the Russians won 6-1, keeping the ball down and working it with methodical precision.

Earlier they had beaten a strong French amateur side by the appalling total of 17-1. So the French, hardly believing their eyes, invited them to face Red Star—with what result you know.

Spreading Fast

What puzzled my Parisian friend was the extraordinary knowledge of the game displayed by the Russians.

Unlike the French, for instance, Soviet footballers have never had the benefit of British instruction or the advantage of playing international matches.

For all that, the game is spreading fast in the Union, and I am assured that Russia will soon be fit to rank equal with some of those other Continental countries to whom England extend invitations.

Belgian Leader

The Czechoslovakians, by the way, have nominated their provisional team to visit England in November, having held a trial match for the purpose the other day. Braine, the Belgian-born centre forward, was the outstanding player, and is certain to make the trip. They say he is remarkably clever and quick and a good marksman.

MILITARY PLANE REFUELS FROM GLIDER

CROYDON PLANS

"BLIND APPROACH" EQUIPMENT FOR AERODROME

TWO TYPES TO BE TESTED

WIRELESS MAST CUT

London.

Plans are being pushed ahead for the erection of "blind approach" equipment at Croydon aerodrome.

Two types of equipment will be tried out side by side.

The 100ft. wireless mast on the south-west corner of the aerodrome has been cut to about 30ft., at which height it will not interfere with aircraft in bad weather.

It will have a 30-mile range and pilots will receive aural signals as they reach the limits of its radius.

Guide Through Fog These will guide the air liners through fog to the aerodrome boundary.

There the "blind approach" equipment will come into operation.

The Lorenz system as used at Tempelhof aerodrome, Berlin, has been chosen.

This consists of two marker beacons. One is sited some two miles from the aerodrome boundary. When an aeroplane passes over it a visual signal on the instrument panel is extinguished and a constant dot or dash signal is heard by the pilot in his earphones.

He throttles back at a given altitude and glides down through the fog to the second marker beacon, which is not far from the aerodrome boundary.

Boundary Lights

A second light signal on his dashboard is extinguished by wireless beam from this beacon. By use of the sensitive altimeter which registers his height above the aerodrome accurately to five feet, he can continue the glide when passing this second beacon knowing that he will reach the boundary without meeting any obstacle.

As he crosses the boundary at less than 100ft. the boundary lights in the gloom will give him enough view of the ground to flatten out long before he reaches the centre of the landing area.

The complete installation of both types is expected to be ready by November for first tests and it is expected that the equipment being fitted to the Prince of Wales's Viceroy monoplane for tests by short wave will be ready at the same time.

PROGRESS IN MICHIGAN

A total of 85 airport projects has been submitted to the State planning commission by the Michigan State board of aeronautics.

Laura Ingalls smiles triumphantly as she leaves her monoplane at Floyd Bennett Field, New York, after flying non-stop from Burbank, California, and clipping six hours off Amelia Earhart's record. Her time was 13 hours and 34 minutes, only seven minutes longer than Frank Hawks' mark.

LADY CUNLIFFE-OWEN'S AIR FEAT

HOME AFTER 24 HOURS' VISIT TO JERUSALEM

Ascot.

IN her beautiful country home at Sunningdale Park, near here, Lady Cunliffe-Owen, the young wife of Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen, millionaire racehorse owner and tobacco magnate, tonight told her dramatic 3,000 miles dash to the bedside of her mother, who was ill in Palestine.

AUSTRALIAN AIRMAN TO FLY HOME

No Record Attempt TO TAKE UP CIVIL AVIATION

London.

Mr. Charles James Melrose, the young Australian airman who finished third in the handicap section of the Mildenhall to Melbourne race and took part in the recent King's Cup race, will return to Australia by air this month.

On arriving at Croydon aerodrome last month for an inspection of his aeroplane by Air Ministry experts, Mr. Melrose said that he did not intend to attempt any records, but would return home by easy stages. He will take up civil aviation in Australia.

Flying from Australia to England in September last year he made an unofficial record of eight days nine hours, which was, however, broken in April by Mr. H. L. Brook.

CHICAGO'S AIR TERMINAL

A proposal has been made that an island be built in Lake Michigan to be used as an air terminal for the city of Chicago.

DUKE OF KENT'S PLANE THIRD Folkestone Race

The Folkestone Air Trophy Race was won recently by Mr. L. Lipton, flying his own D. H. Moth at an average speed of 112 m.p.h. The race was on handicap.

Flight-Lt. Wilson, in a B.A. Eagle, was second at 140 m.p.h., and Mr. E. W. Percival, flying the Duke of Kent's Mew Gull, which he raced in the King's Cup contest, was third at an average speed of 198.5 m.p.h. Mr. Percival was scratch man.

The race was flown in a strong wind over a triangular course of 60 miles which included 11 sharp turns.

TAKE-OFF SPEEDS

Many air liners leave the ground while travelling at a speed of about 60 miles an hour.

FLOWERS BY AIR

Rapid aeroplane transportation now makes it possible for flower growers along the Hudson river to market their products in a fresh condition in midwestern and western States.

TWO REMARKABLE AIR FEATS

PARACHUTE-KITE FOR STRATOSPHERE

ALL-STEEL AIRSHIP NOW BEING BUILT BY SOVIET

TWO remarkable air achievements were announced by the Soviet authorities last month. A military plane made a 900-mile flight by refuelling from a glider it was towing, and a giant parachute-kite lifted a load of four tons and three airmen to a height of 3,300 feet.

The plane, the "P.5," refuelled from two petrol tanks fitted to the glider. With the additional supplies it was able to keep going for 17 hours, as against four hours with its own supply. It flew from Moscow to Koktebel Aerodrome, in the Crimea, a distance of more than twice the plane's normal range of 450 miles.

This is claimed to be a world non-stop record for an "air train."

CABLE TO STRATOSPHERE

An attempt is to be made to send the parachute-kite into the stratosphere. (6-15 miles up). The plan is to attach it to the ground by a fine steel cable, supported by a vast number of small parachute kites.

Apart from this scheme the parachute-kite might have considerable value at lower altitudes over enemy lines in wartime.

The Soviet authorities are now building a small all-steel, absolutely rigid and non-inflammable airship. It will be of high tensile steel, electrically welded, and 148ft. long.

This, however, seems a more doubtful adventure, because the Americans tried and failed to build a satisfactory ship of a similar kind in duraluminium eight years ago.

1,437 MILES IN 56 HOURS

RECORD TRIP BY BALLOON

Moscow.

A new world distance record for balloons of similar volume is claimed by the Soviet pilots Romanov and Babykin, who have covered 1,437 miles in their balloon in 56 hours.

The two men took off from Zvenigorod, near Moscow, and landed in Southern Kazakhstan (South-Western Siberia). Their balloon was one of 2,200 cubic metres' volume.

NEW EMPIRE AIR LINK

Penang-Hong Kong Service Soon

SIX RETURN FLIGHTS FIRST

The Imperial Airways liner, Dorado, piloted by Capt. W. Armstrong, which left Croydon last month for the Malay Peninsula, has already carried out its experimental flight between Penang and Hong Kong.

This will not only link up China with the main Empire air-service between Great Britain and Australia, but will also form part of a future round-the-world route.

Six return flights between Penang and Hong Kong will be made, the first of which began on October 2, and it is likely that regular mail and passenger service will be inaugurated soon afterwards.

The main stages of the ultimate aerial journey round the world will be:

London-Penang	8,000
Penang-Hong Kong	1,000
Hong Kong-Honolulu	5,900
Honolulu-Los Angeles	2,000
Los Angeles-New York	2,900
New York-London	3,900

Pan-American Airways have already made successful test flights across the Pacific, from California to Honolulu, and are at present surveying the route from Honolulu to China.

3 PLANES IN EVERY AIRPORT IN UNITED STATES

There are about three planes to every airport in the United States at present.

TWO AIR RECORDS BROKEN

U.S. Woman's Flight

New York.

Two air records have been broken by American fliers.

The first was by Miss Laura Ingalls, who flew from Los Angeles to New York in 13 hours 34 minutes, thus beating Miss Amelia Earhart's time of 17 hours 7 minutes.

The second was an unofficial world record for land aeroplanes, set up by Mr. Howard Hughes, a film producer. He flew his British Comet aeroplane at 352 m.p.h. over a measured mile, and average 337 m.p.h. over both ways of the course.

NEW TYPE OF MONOPLANE

A new four-place cabin monoplane bearing a striking resemblance to the newest streamlined automobiles has been developed for private and commercial use.

13-PASSENGER PLANE

The capacity of a huge soaring plane under construction in Russia is 13 passengers.

Russian Designer Of An All-metal Airship

Moscow.—The death of the Russian scientist and inventor, Constantin Tsiolkovsky, at the age of 78, was recently announced in Moscow.

Tsiolkovsky was chiefly known for his research work in aeronautics, and particularly the construction of airships.

Since 1885 he had worked on the designs for an all-metal airship. His projects came to nothing under the Tsarist regime because of his lack of money.

Under the Soviet a special laboratory was opened for Tsiolkovsky, so that he might continue his research work. Many of his books were published, including over ten works on the theory of the reactive motor first elaborated by him.

On his 75th birthday, in 1932, the Soviet Government conferred upon the scientist the Order of the Red Banner of Labour.

SOLVING PROBLEM OF CHEAP FLYING

London.

THE Aeronca Jap side-by-side two-seater light aeroplane — which is to be produced in this country — was demonstrated before aircraft experts at Hanworth aerodrome last month.

Its makers, Messrs. Light Aircraft, Ltd., are to be congratulated on their enterprise and foresight, for it is considered that by selling this machine at the low price of £395, they will have gone a long way towards solving the problem of really cheap flying.

The Aeronca is easy to handle in a strong wind.

Low Landing Speed

Its low landing speed of 35 m.p.h., its quick take-off after a run of only some 120 yards, its rate of climb, and its cruising speed of 85 m.p.h. are all qualities which should appeal not only to flying schools and clubs, but also to the private owner.

FORGOT PETROL

Lucky Escape At Hythe

FIANCEE'S FIRST FLIGHT

Hythe.

One of Kent's flying policemen, P.C. Cheeseman of Brenzett, took his fiancée, Miss Cloke, to Hythe Cinque-Ports Flying Club for her first flight last month.

To the horror of watching officials there was a cloud of black smoke when the constable reached a height of about 80 feet, the engine cut out, and the plane rapidly lost height. There was a rush to get the ambulance ready, but Cheeseman landed the machine safely.

"I forgot to turn on the petrol," said the constable. Ten minutes later he took off again with Miss Cloke and remained in the air about 20 minutes.

"AIRPORT" NOW OFFICIAL

Recognition Given By Ministry

The Air Ministry has decided to give official recognition to the word "airport" to express, in a single word, the type of air base at which Customs facilities are available and which can be used for immigration clearances. All other such places may not use any other designation than "aerodromes."

The word "airport" came from America, where it has long been used to describe many types of aerodromes and landing grounds.

Most of our municipal landing grounds are elevated to the dignity of airports as soon as they can show they have sufficient air traffic of a serious commercial type to warrant the expense of maintaining a Customs officer permanently, or if they have a seaport Customs officer who can be in attendance on demand.

WIRELESS MESSAGES BY PLANE

The 70-radio-equipped transport planes operated by a large American airline sent and received messages totalling 11,000,000 words during 1934.

FLOATING DRY DOCK

As no "slipway" is available at Pembroke, England, to haul sea-pieces from the water when repairs are necessary, a floating dry dock has been placed in operation for this purpose.

The wreckage above is all that is left of the giant Western Air plane which crashed and burned near the airport at Burbank, California, killing George C. Sherwood, pilot (last), Fred N. Burlew, co-pilot and Dennis Taylor, a stewardess, who were flying the ship without passengers. The United States Department of Commerce is conducting an inquiry into the cause of the accident.

Sanctions At Work

It is quite safe to say that in 1919 everybody believed that the application of "Economic Sanctions" would be completely effective in deterring any Government from going to war. The loss of trade, the inability to borrow, the breach of mercantile connections, seemed likely to involve more loss and disturbance than would be worth facing. These are the consequences of any war, in the long run. But they are not clearly realised until the warning is too late. There is no doubt that Mr. Eden is pushing on the organisation of the enforcement of the recent resolutions as fast as any man could, but what are the omens of success?

One thing is perfectly clear. The economic penalty should be applied at a much earlier stage. It should be preventive, not penal. I Duce knew all about the Covenant years ago; at least four years ago he set himself to prepare for resistance, by creating large reserves of what was most essential, and aiming at the utmost possible self-sufficiency. The easiest measure to enforce, as it has been the first to be put into action, is the prohibition of loans. Two days ago I Duce boasted that as he had not borrowed any money from abroad for thirteen years, he would have no need to do so now. It is worth while to take a glance at the figures of Italian trade and finance, to see whether the boast is justified, always remembering that Italy was very generously treated by her former Allies, who allowed her to write off ninety per cent. of her war debt, remembering also that her existing debt was devalued when the gold value of the lira was fixed at its present ratio.

In 1922, before the slump began, the sterling value of Italian trade was £366,600,000 for Imports, and £266,600,000 for Exports. Even allowing for the large payments by tourists, that shows a big deficit, represented by obligations incurred for the supply of what are called "producer's goods," such as machinery. In 1934 the Imports had sunk to £128,000,000, and Exports to £87,000,000. In the four years 1930-4, there was a total deficit of £240,000,000. That represents a large amount of money borrowed for industry, and it is a black outlook for the lenders if all the export of the factories is stopped. It must be remembered that under Fascism the State and the factories are united, so that dividends in default will be a loss to the shareholders, and not to the State, though the shareholders are really partners with the State.

The public debt nonetheless has been enormously increased. The last figure officially published was £1,750,000,000, but the increase had been more and more rapid, and it is certain that the amount is now over the sterling equivalent of £2,000,000,000. The greater part of the debt is held in Italy, as foreigners have not been anxious to buy this security. The rate at which the last loan was raised was five per cent., with exemption from income tax, a very considerable concession, and the price was 95. The old five per cent. debt was cut down to 3½ per cent. interest, and can be tendered as part payment for the new stock at the price of 80, if another 15 lire is added in cash. Had Italy pursued a policy of peaceful development she could have borrowed at three per cent. The boast of not borrowing from abroad is perhaps literally correct, but it is balanced by the reflection that Italy has not been conspicuous for paying abroad, and lenders do like to get something back.

The embargo on capital will be disadvantageous to Italy in increasing ratio month by month if the war drags on, but it seems that a very big proportion of the loss will fall on private foreign shareholders in Italian Companies, and it has to be brought into consideration that a few months ago I Duce commandeered all foreign securities owned by Italians. These were paid for by the issue of scrip which was added to the public debt. The members of the League who are enforcing sanctions have therefore no chance of retaliation by commandeering or cancelling the former Italian investments, because they have already been realised, and the exchange used to pay for munitions. Dictatorship alone could have made this deal possible.

SAFETY-PINS THAT ARE SAFE

May Be Swallowed With Impunity

Spokane, Washington.

A new type of safety-pin which baby may swallow with less chance of internal injury, has been invented.

The pin springs shut instead of open, according to Mr. J. H. Williams, of Spokane. He said that he and Mr. Victor Grant Jones had obtained a patent on the pin, which has a reversed spring. He added that Jones thought of the idea after reading of several instances in which babies swallowed open safety pins. — Reuter.

PATHOLOGICAL?

Mr. Arthur Bliss, the composer, speaking at the Oxford Summer Course in Music and Music Teaching recently, said: "Newspapers, cinemas and broadcasting all tend to make everybody think in the same stock phrases, see the same stock types, react to the same stock emotions."

"The ordinary person may no longer be capable of registering an individual emotion. The artist is aware of this and tries desperately to fix and solidify it."

To-day jazz was the only international music, he said, and was more a subject for the pathologist than the musician.

THE BEST SPEAKERS

The recent dinner to celebrate the jubilee of the Institute of Chemistry had a very large toast-list. The eight full-dress speeches were equally divided between the men of science and the professional speakers.

One is bound to admit that those distinguished men Sir Frederick Hopkins, Professor Jocelyn Thorpe, Professor Donnay and Professor Smithells were no match for Dr. Burgin, Lord Crawford and Balcarras and Lord Macmillan. Sir Herbert Samuel, who was billed to speak as the fourth professional, slipped away during Dr. Burgin's speech to vote against the Government.

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

The name of Dr. Thomas Jack, B.D.S. (Sydney), D.D.S. (Toronto), L.D.S. (Ontario), has been added to the Dental Register.

His Honour Sir Atholl MacGregor, Chief Justice, has ordered that the next Criminal Sessions will take place on Monday morning, commencing at 10 a.m.

It is notified that the name of the Macan Hong Kong Sports Club, Ltd., has been struck off the Register of Companies.

Unless cause is shown to the contrary, at the expiration of three months from October 12, the name of the Lun Sing Hing Ki Co. Ltd. will be struck off the Register of Companies and the company will be dissolved.

A dinner dance will be held at the Repulse Bay Hotel to-day and a tea dance to-morrow. The last bus will leave Repulse Bay at 1 a.m. to-day and a half-hourly bus service will operate to-morrow afternoon.

The Hong Kong Branch of the English Association will commence its activities for the Session 1935-36 by holding a general meeting in the Helens May Institute on Tuesday, November 5, at 5.15 p.m. The first part of the meeting will be devoted to the statement of accounts and the election of office-bearers, and Mr. A. E. Paterson, B.A. (Oxon.), will then speak on "The National Theatre."

"POOR RELATIONS" INTELLIGENCE INTERESTING ARTICLE ON CHIMPANZEES

SUPERSTITIONS DISCOVERED

(By The Very Rev. W. R. Inge, D.D.)

I have often wondered that philosophers and men of science are still to be found who maintain that there is a generic difference between the intelligence of human beings and that of the so-called lower animals. We are told that they have to be content with instinct, while we have specialised in intellect.

Descartes held that they are mere automata; no doubt it has been possible to maintain that we are only automata, "the most cunningly devised of nature's clocks," as I think Huxley put it.

This theory is perhaps rather out of date. The fact is that like other parvenus we are ashamed of our poor relations. Disraeli, unexpectedly appearing in gorgeous raiment at the Oxford Diocesan Conference while that body was discussing evolution, proclaimed that he was "on the side of the angels." Bishop Samuel Wilberforce, primed by Professor Owen, who was a really great anatomist, imprudently crossed swords with Huxley, and asked him whether he traced his descent from a monkey on the father's side or the mother's.

His attitude is still authoritative at Dayton, Tennessee, to be carefully distinguished from Dayton, Ohio. But the other day a small boy at the Zoo, with a confused idea of the Birmingham controversy, said, "Mummy, have all these poor monkeys got to become bishops?"

It is odd that we should be so sensitive, for if we were so delicate as to date our birth from our real beginning, we should have to acknowledge that we were once much lower in the biological scale than any mammal.

Kohler's Famous Book

I have just been reading Kohler's famous book on the Mentality of Apes. Kohler spent several years in the company of chimpanzees at Tenerife, making friends with them and observing their habits. He is described as now Professor of Philosophy at Berlin. I hope he will be careful, for are chimpanzees Aryans? At any rate, their noses are not Semitic.

There is a companion volume, by Zuckermann, about baboons. But baboons are not nice animals. "Manners they have none and, as for their customs, they are heastly." The chimpanzee, on the other hand, apart from his predilection for coprophagy (the obscenity of a learned language is here useful) is a gentleman. He has all the virtues and some of the faults of homo sapiens.

Real Intelligence

Kohler is mainly concerned to prove, as he does triumphantly, that the chimpanzee possesses real intelligence. He can carry concerted plans. If he wants to draw food into his cage from a place out of his reach, he will fit a stick into a hollow bamboo, and will rake in the coveted morsel, always putting the end of the double stick beyond the object.

If the food is hanging from the ceiling, he will place one box on the top of another, or even make a pile of three boxes, and mount on them will knock off his banana with a stick. But he will also take his man friend engagingly by the hand, and lead him under the banana, after which he will suddenly spring on his shoulder.

The little community invented games and then got tired of them, as humans do. One joke was to guide a procession of ants on to a stick, which they then licked clean. They started fashions, of which they also tired after a time. It became the fashion, at different times, to walk on their hind legs, to tear off each other's hair, like post-war young women, to carry rags, vegetables, and flowers.

Photographs Recognized

Those acquired habits seem to me to be very important for naturalists, who are sometimes too much inclined to assume that there is no change or progress in animal societies.

Like babies, they try to kiss their reflections in a mirror, and they were surprised to find that the photograph of a chimpanzee had no solid back to it. But the experiment with mirrors and photographs had a ludicrous consequence. The apes became so fond of their counterfeit presentments that they developed a Narcissus complex. They were found gazing at their reflections in water or on any bright surface.

They look after each other kindly and efficiently when one of them is ill or hurt. Kohler once got a splinter into his finger, and showed it to one of his friends. The ape at once assumed the gravity and importance of a surgeon; he examined the wound, seized the hand and forced out the splinter by two very skillful squeezes with his fingers, and then he examined the hand very closely and let it fall, satisfied with his work.

Superstition

It is curious that they were terrified of toys which even remotely resembled some animal, and were still more horrified when their master came to them wearing an ugly mask. Kohler thinks, and I agree, that this is superstition, like our ancestors' fears of ghosts and demons.

When a dog bays at the moon, is he not in a very rudimentary way saying his prayers? We once had two collies, one of which died. I pretended to see him in the corner of the room, and talked to him. The other dog, which had never loved its companion, showed unmistakable signs of fear.

Kohler soon found that the chimpanzees differed as much in character and intelligence as human beings. They were very clannish, and gave a newcomer a very bad time. They also formed cliques; two of them would strike up a warm friendship.

Did Kohler try to teach them to understand German? It seems to me that experiments of this kind might have been valuable. Dogs are sometimes astonishingly quick at recognising the meaning of human speech.

In a house where I was staying the other day the hostess remarked to my wife, "Toby must be washed to-morrow." The dog, who was lying on the hearth-rug, understood perfectly, and was much agitated. On the next morning he hid himself and could not be found.

Duties To Poor Relations

Is it not a horrible thing that over a great part of Christendom the authorised teaching is that since no animals have no souls we have no duties towards them? I was amused to see that a clerical friend had put up a cross over his dog's grave. But, upon my word, I think he was nearer the true spirit of Christianity than those who accept the doctrine I have just mentioned.

I know that St. Paul asked contemptuously, "Doth God take care of oxen?" I am sorry that he said so. But a greater than St. Paul told us that no sparrow falls to the ground without God. We men, the tyrants and bullies of our planet, have yet much to learn about our duties to our poor relations, who have as good a right to life and happiness as we have.

CHIANG'S DOWNFALL CONTEMPLATED?

JAPANESE MILITARIST ACTIVITIES

CHANGED ATTITUDE TOWARD SOUTH-WEST NOTED

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, To-day.

Agitation by Japanese military commanders in China and Tokyo aimed at the overthrow of General Chiang Kai-shek, strong man of the Nanking Government, are believed in well-informed circles here to be the reason for Chiang's compromising attitude towards the South-west.

CORRESPONDENCE

A TRAVELLER'S COMPLAINT

(To The Editor, "China Mail")

Sir.—The determination of wasting these ink-drops on the first day of my first visit to this Colony is an unexpected miserable thing that I have most unfortunately come across.

Fascinated by the numerous talks on the beauty of the Island I counted hours as days all along my voyage until the morning scenery presented to meet my eyes on the President boat steaming into the harbour.

The natural beauty of the Colony alone is worth of a trip. But I am still adamant in airing my grievance against too many searches of my baggage upon my arrival.

Searching baggage is to curio smuggling and I do not, therefore, expect to be made an exception as a traveller. Yesterday morning, at the Kowloon Wharf my baggage was stopped for carrying out the perfunctory duty of the Revenue Department. As a matter of fact the European Officer caused me less inconvenience than I expected. And, for his smiling expression any stranger would inwardly lavish praise. I should say I thank this greeting from Hong Kong.

However, when the small boat carrying all my baggage, touched the wharf of the opposite harbour, the unloading was subject to another search—a very long search. The fact that one basket with eatable contents was looked into for 10 minutes with beastly handling of the parcels was sufficient to arouse your readers' sympathy on the patience of an unfortunate traveller.

The reasonable protest that same baggage was, 40 minutes ago, searched at the Kowloon Wharf was not only ignored but was ostensibly taken as a provocation. Hence, more bags were turned inside out. The look and the dominating voice of this plain-clothed Chinese revenue-officer were entirely different from that of the first European searcher. Such was my experience and partly my impression of Hong Kong.

I learn that the wish to attract more travellers into the Colony is running very high recently. If so, let the Authority be not blinded to such happening.

Thanking you, Sir, for allowing me space.

MOLESTED.

WHAT IS THE AGE OF MAN?

Professor Places It At 50,000 Years

EASTER ISLAND DECLARED TO FURNISH CLUE

Los Angeles.

"I have made some translations which push back the history of Man from 5,000 or 6,000 years to 50,000 years," declared Professor Edmond Szekely, of the University of Cluj, Roumania, in an address made in Esperanto here.

The professor said he had made what would seem to be the first translation of mysterious hieroglyphics inscribed on pieces of wood found on Easter Island, in the Pacific.

The piece of wood from which he made the translation, the professor added, is about two feet long and is shaped like a canoe. It is one of about 11 specimens found about 75 years ago during research on Easter Island, and which are now in the hands of scientists in various parts of the world.

The scrawl, in the professor's estimate, tells of the rise of Helioolithic civilisation, or "Sun and Stone" civilisation. The story of the Sunmen or Nomads, and their struggles with the Stone Men or Stone-workers, is recounted in the hieroglyphics.

Helioolithic Culture
"From this civilisation came that of Babylon, Ancient Egypt, and indeed all subsequent ones," added the professor. "It also gave rise to the religion of Persian Zoroastrianism and the Brahmanism of the Hindus. This Helioolithic age began to Central Asia 25,000 years ago. The leaders came by boat to Easter Island, which accounts for the extraordinary stone gods raised in rows which have mystified modern scientists there."

Although Helioolithic civilisation dates back 25,000 years, according to Professor Szekely's estimate, references in the hieroglyphics to the Pleistocene floods and cataclysms which separated the peoples of the past induce him to double his estimate of the probable history of man.

The carved images on Easter Island are known as "speaking timbers" the professor continued, and many of them tell of the struggle between the Sun Men and the Stone Men and also, curiously enough, the origin of leprosy and its cure.

The professor is on his way to Mexico City, accompanied by Mr. Purcell Weaver, of London, and Mr. F. Marchal, of Tahiti, where the trio will make further efforts to unravel the history of man's remote past.—Reuter.

LABOUR SHORTAGE IN RUSSIA

Curious New Problem

Moscow.

With the growth of its industrial programme, Soviet Russia has run upon a new problem—labour shortage.

This is especially felt in the more or less undeveloped regions where new industrial enterprises are being started.

Special commissions are now combing the country districts to recruit labour from among the peasants.

The shortage is particularly acute in the case of skilled workers with a trade such as carpenters, plasterers, bricklayers and plumbers.—Reuter.

Government Appointments

The appointment of Miss Hilda Prescott to be a Nursing Sister, with effect from October 2, is gazetted.

Mr. David Kelvin-Stark has been appointed Deputy Estate Duty Commissioner and Assistant Colonial Treasurer, with effect from October 21.

To-day's Short Story

The Horrible God

By Thomas
Burke

MR. RAINWATER wasn't easily scared, but for the last three or four days he had a strong feeling that he was being followed, and it was upsetting him. He knew that the feeling of being followed is often a symptom of a neurotic or morbid state, but that wasn't his state. He was quite healthy and free of melodramatic or nervous imaginings. He was being followed. He could feel it through his skin. He could feel it in the air the moment he left his home. He could feel pursuit and the prickings of danger.

Towards midnight that evening his suspicion became certainty. He was walking down Shaftesbury Avenue towards Piccadilly and was in the thick of the crowd coming from the theatres when, clearly and with electrical urgency, a voice reached his ear. It was a keen mutter, and it said: "I speak as a friend. The vengeance of the god Imbroh is a terrible vengeance. He seeks his own place."

Rainwater turned swiftly. He collided with two girls just behind him who were giggling and talking of Ronald Colman. On one side of him a policeman was striding. On the other side was a wall. Two paces ahead was a newsboy, and walking away from him were a couple of nondescript youths who had evidently been drinking.

As the crowd swirled round him he looked here and there for the possible speaker, but could see nobody to whom that queer mutter could have belonged. It was not an English mutter.

On the opposite side of the street was a large negro in a brilliant blue suit; in a bus coming from Piccadilly-circus sat a man of muddy colour and Oriental features; and outside the Monico, some 30 yards away, was an Algerian rug-seller. But the distance of these men from him made it impossible for any of them to have spoken those words in his ear two seconds ago.

He stood and considered. It was odd; very odd. The voice had been so sharp and so close that it must have been addressing him.

It had come right into his ear, as though the mouth had been touching his shoulder. Yet nobody to whom he could trace it. He knew, of course, the trick of self-effacement; that sleek movement by which a cat will pass round you before your eyes without your seeing it, and which certain people can achieve by a cessation of mental action. He attributed the vanishing of the speaker to that, and he had reason for believing that the speaker was not English. The message, he was sure, was meant for him, and no other person in the crowd. He was sure it was connected with his feeling of being followed, and that every thing connected with that horrible

The idol had been worrying Rainwater for some time—even before the following had begun. It was an idol of a kind he had never before seen; an idol which gave him the shudders every time he looked at it. As a collector of native bric-a-brac, he was accustomed, even hardened, to the many variations upon certain themes of which the black mind, in its more exalted fervours, is capable.

But this... The most cloistered nun, knowing nothing of the images by which men express the baseness of man, would have known at a glance that this thing was in form and spirit horrible. The most experienced Madame of a Buenos Aires sailors' hotel would not have confused it with the realistic emblems of native religions which her customers brought from their voyages and with which they improved her knowledge of anthropology. It was just a masterpiece of unrelated horror.

MONDAY'S STORY

Monday's story will be "Uncharted Creek," by Andrew D. Pears.

The artist who made it had withdrawn from the unfenced fields of religious ardour and had immured himself within the narrow dogmas of art—just to show, apparently, that art, with all its fetters of form and technique, could outscar anything achieved under the license and tolerance by which the darker religions distinguish themselves from art.

Certainly he had succeeded. Never had Rainwater, under that cloak of respectability which hides so many anomalies, even imagined anything like it. Nor had anybody else whom he knew. Of all his acquaintance among curators of museums, not one could put a name to it or even conjecture the country or island of its origin. When he showed it to them they stared and whistled.

And that was all he could get from them. They could tell him that it wasn't Egypt, that it wasn't Java, that it wasn't Easter Island, or Haiti, or Liberia; but they couldn't tell him what it was. They could only tell him that he'd better put it away or throw it away.

He put it away at the bottom of one of his curio cabinets. He couldn't give it away, because nobody he knew would have accepted it. All his friends were married. And as a collector he couldn't bring himself to throw it away. Yet, in keeping it in his rooms, he felt a distinct unease, as though in possession of its horror and had had a share in making it.

Sharp's the word, Sir

What an amazing difference Gillette's new electrical process has made to razor blades. For it puts two tempers into one blade—soft at the ends where it bends to the razor and incredibly hard at the sides for sharpening to a super-cutting edge. Even if you're not interested in technical details you will be interested in the smoother, closer shaves you'll get. And in the extra shaves per blade. There has never before been a razor blade like this new Blue Gillette. Try one and see for yourself.

PRIEST REFUSES REQUEST
Paola, Kansas—A Jesuit priest of New Jersey, the Rev. W. H. McClellan, has declined to accept a bequest of $25,000 from the estate of a friend, Mr. Henry Jones, of this town. In filing a disclaimer to his share of the estate, the priest said he had forsworn all worldly possessions when he entered the Society of Jesus. Reuter.

THE HORRIBLE GOD

He wanted to throw it away, or burn it, or drop it over one of the bridges, but whenever he reached the point of setting out to do it, the collecting instinct mastered him. If the thing had been emitting an evil smell into his room he still wouldn't have been able to screw himself up to throwing it away. So he kept it locked up and only took it out now and then, which made him feel more guilty.

If a friend was announced he would hurriedly hide it. If he heard his housekeeper's step outside the door he would throw a newspaper over it. When he had had it for three weeks his demeanour had become almost furtive.

And then began that feeling of being followed and its climax of that muttered message. He wished he had never seen the wretched thing, or, having seen it, had resisted the temptation to buy it. The thing itself was a horror and now it was leading to this uncanny following and this uncanny message delivered in a crowded street. He didn't know what to do about it.

It wasn't the threat that disturbed him so much as the stealthy following and the manner in which the threat had been delivered. If it was the ju-ju of some tribe or creed with representatives in London why couldn't they come to him openly? Why the following about which had begun apparently from the moment he bought it, when he had been followed to his home? And how could he put the little hideous god back in his own place when nobody, not even scholars, knew whence it came?

He walked on in some disturbance. Every now and then he looked back or stopped by a shop whose side-window reflected the path behind him, but he saw nobody who might be the follower, and did not expect to. Whoever had been following him the last few days was an experienced shadower; clever enough to convey the horrid sense of his neighbourhood and clever enough to remain unperceived.

Mr. Rainwater was beginning to realise that there is something in being followed which is more shocking than a revolver at the head or a knife at the throat. There is nothing to grasp; nothing to combat; only a persistent nagging at the nerves, which in time can wear you down.

And Rainwater was being worn down. If they wanted their god they could have it, so far as he was concerned. He couldn't throw an artistic treasure away, but if it meant something more to people than it did to him they were welcome to it, if only they would come and ask for it. They must know his address or they wouldn't be able to follow him as they did. Why, then this menacing and muttering of vengeance?

On reaching home he learned that they did know his address. His housekeeper met him in the hall. She held a grubby piece of pink paper. "I don't know what this is, sir, or how it came. I found it on the mat under the evening paper. Would it be anything you know about?" She passed it to him. It bore air words in an ungainly scrawl: "Imbrolu waits. You have been warned."

Mr. Rainwater made a noise of irritation. He passed it back to her. "No, I don't know anything about it. Some odd bit of waste paper that blew in. I should think." But he went upstairs feeling a little sick. When he got to his room he went first to the little cabinet in which he kept the horrible thing.

The room was filled with results of his collecting mania. They hung on the walls, they stood on tables and they decorated half a dozen glass cabinets; tribal work mainly, all of it bizarre. The horrible thing was not resting in one of the glass cabinets. It was in an old lacquer cabinet—a nest of drawers three times concealed within other drawers. He had just opened it and had reached the drawer containing the thing, when, without conscious impulse, he went to the window and moved the curtain aside. He moved it aside casually; he dropped it swiftly.

On the opposite pavement under the overhanging trees of a front garden was a motionless figure. The figure was dressed in a raincoat, and its soft hat had the brim turned down. To see the face was impossible, but something about the pose of the figure conveyed to Mr. Rainwater the sense of alien ideas. He turned from the window, shut all the drawers and doors of the cabinet, without looking to see if his treasure was there, and dropped into a chair by the fire.

He had scarcely dropped when he got up again; found a glass, and mixed himself a drink. He went back to the chair with it, and dropped again. He wasn't a coward and he wasn't a man of stout nerve. He was like most of us, in between, and ready to admit when he was shaken. He was a

Hunt, picking up in the loose, forced his way over for a try for Swansea, but Harris missed with the kick.

Brilliant Breakaway

Davies broke through brilliantly, and Claude Davey, taking his well-judged pass, raced clear of the defence to ground the ball under the bar. This time Harris improved.

The tourists retaliated, and, following a scrum in the home twenty-five, Gilbert ran clear and sent in Ball for an easy try that Gilbert did not convert.

Swansea were by no means done with, and towards half-time Davies led to another try. He cut through in dazzling style, passed on to Ron Williams, and saw Claude Davey put on a third try to enable the Welshmen to change ends eight points in front, a lead they retained to the end.

Although there was no score in the second half the Welsh team were as much the better side as they were before the interval.

2 1/2-D-A-MILE PLANE

Among other attractions is its low cost of upkeep, the total yearly cost—including depreciation, insurance, garaging, petrol and oil, maintenance, etc.—being estimated at £272 for 26,000 miles, or an average of 2½d. per flying mile. A similar mileage for a 20 h.p. sports car works out at nearly 3d. per mile.

Endurance Record

Aeroplanes are flying regularly in the northern regions of Canada, at times in a temperature of 30deg. below zero and at altitudes of 10,000ft. across mountains. More pilots have been trained in these machines in Canada than in any other.

The Aerona tripled the former light aeroplane endurance record by flying 27hr. 43min. continuously. A standard model flew from Havana to Mexico City, a distance of 1,112 miles, in two stages in 14hr. at a fuel cost of £3.

Girl Turns Herself Into Limited Company

Hollywood. One of Hollywood's registered companies is about to be absorbed in a merger.

The company consists entirely of one asset—the beauty and acting ability of Miss Velma Gresham, a young society girl from Tennessee who in 1932 filed articles of incorporation for herself. She sold stock in the company to her friends and thereby financed a trip to Hollywood and an assault on movie fame. She declared her first dividend a year later.

Now she announces to her stockholders that she is merging with another organisation—a "one-man" concern embodied in the person of Mr. Paul Ziegler, a lawyer. The couple are to be married very shortly—Beuter.

as mild and amiable people can, be capable of ferocity when really roused and when there was some concrete object of his ferocity.

Such as a man who insisted on having the window of a railway carriage closed on a warm day.

But against intangible hostility, or against anything unfamiliar, he was a reed. His heart didn't give way, but his nerves did. None of the incidents of the last four days had made him afraid, but they had brought him to the edge of a breakdown. He needed a drink.

Sitting there in the midnight silence he began to hear, or to think he could hear, odd noises from the street. Little soft noises, of the kind that make people ask each other in whispers—"What's that?" Once or twice, without knowing why, he looked over at the lacquer cabinet, and found himself relieved to see that it was still there and still a lacquer cabinet.

He wanted to go to the window again, but couldn't. He wanted to know if the figure had gone, but there was the possibility that he would see it standing in the same position; and he didn't want to see it. There was nothing in the figure itself, or in its attitude, to disturb anyone. It was just a solitary and motionless man, yet its mere presence conveyed a stream of menace and portent and alarm which was the more potent for being obscure.

It created that shrinking of the skin which man always knows before the nameless peril. In its immobility it was horrid, and Mr. Rainwater didn't want to see it. Also, he had a feeling that, horrid as it was in stillness, it would fill him with more horror if it moved.

He wanted to go to bed, but couldn't. He had half an idea of taking the horrible idol from the cabinet, opening the window, and flinging it out to the watcher. But if it fell in the roadway it might smash, and that might mean more of this furtive persecution. And he felt that he couldn't stand much more of it. He was accustomed to a peaceful life, and he could not adjust himself to this invasion of his peace.

Somewhat or other he must get rid of the thing. He couldn't give it to a museum, because that might bring persecution on the museum's curator, and if he burnt it or dropped it in the river, he still wouldn't be free of their attentions. And he couldn't hand it over to them because they never came near enough to him. If he took it out now, and went downstairs to give it to the solitary watcher, he was certain that the solitary watcher would have vanished.

But about three o'clock in the morning, after his third drink, which had done his nerves little good, an idea came to him. A simple idea which should have come to him when the persecution began. He would pass it to the people most able to deal with the situation. He would sell it to the shop where he bought it, at any price they cared to give. It was a dim little shop, kept by two swarthy old men who looked as though they could understand and answer any roundabout messages.

On that resolution he went to bed, not caring whether the house was surrounded, or whether he was to be burgled or assassinated, or not. He was beyond caring. His nerves had jittered so much under the persecution, and had developed such a side-jittering from the three heavy drinks, that they were now exhausted. Anything could happen, but Mr. Rainwater was going to bed.

Nothing did happen; and after a miniature breakfast he took the horrible god from the private drawer of the cabinet, packed it carefully in tissue-paper, put it into his overcoat pocket, and set out for the shop, followed, he was sure, all the way.

He did not get rid of it as easily as he had hoped. The partners were not in a buying mood. When he offered it, saying that he was tired of it, and that it was not in keeping with the rest of his collection, they hesitated. They answered as curio-dealers always do; they did not want it. Those things, they said, were not easy to sell. When they could sell that kind of thing they got a good price, but they might have to keep it in stock for a year, two years, five years, before finding a customer. They had had it in stock for three years before Mr.

Rainwater bought it, and walked away as though liberated from clanking chains. Mr. Rainwater asked: would they make an offer? They replied that they would hardly dare. The offer would be too ridiculous. They really did not want it; the small demand for such things made it impossible to offer a price at all relative to the artistic value of the thing.

Mr. Rainwater said sternly: "Name a price." Under compulsion they named, with confusion and apology, ten shillings. "I'll take it." He pushed the horrible god across the counter. They tendered, across the counter, sadly and with deprecation, a ten-shilling note. He took it; said "Good morning" and walked out into the morning sun. Outside, he took a deep breath. "That's that, thank God,"

COAL MINES DISPUTE

Ballot Vote On Wage Increase

London, To-day.

The Delegate Conference of the Miners' Federation, after a prolonged discussion, yesterday adopted the recommendation of the National Executive that a ballot vote of the coalfields should be taken on the question of action to enforce the claim for a flat-rate advance in wages.

In the meantime, the Executive was empowered to conduct negotiations on the claim.

The actual date of the ballot has been left in suspense pending a meeting, arranged for Monday, between the Miners' Executive and the Secretary for the Mines, Captain Crookshank — British Wireless Service.

"WORLD'S BIGGEST BABY"

English Child Holds Title At Present

Gloucester, Massachusetts. The "title," if such it can be called, of the World's Largest Baby, held at present by three-year-old Leslie Bowles of Ramsgate, England, is in danger of being lost to three-and-a-half-year-old Joe Randazza, Jr., of Gloucester.

Joe, who now weighs only one pound less than Leslie, has reached 187lb., and at the rate he is going should soon pass the English child's mark, says the New York Herald-Tribune.

Joe, born on Christmas Eve, 1931, weighed 8lb. at birth, and almost immediately started to gain about 1 lb. a week. He is one of six children. All the others are quite normal. — Reuter.

DUKE OF BUCCLEUCH PASSES

Fortherwood and Ross, and Baron Douglas, (cr. 1834). Born in March 1864, he was the son of the sixth Duke, who married Lady Louisa Jane Hamilton, Mistress of the Robes to Queen Victoria. He succeeded to the Dukedom in 1917.

Educated at the Royal Naval College and Christ Church, Oxford, he entered the Royal Navy in 1877 as cadet; midshipman 1879; Lieut. 1883; left R.N. 1886. Was M.P. (Unionist) for Roxburghshire, 1895-1906.

He is succeeded by his son, the Earl of Dalkeith.

PRINCIPAL OF UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN

London, to-day.—His Majesty the King has approved the appointment of Mr. William Hamilton-Fyfe, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, to be Principal of the University of Aberdeen in succession to the Very Reverend Sir George Adam Smith, whose resignation takes effect at the end of the month. — British Wireless Service.

STATE BANKING LAWS IN GERMANY

Reich Economic Minister To Conduct Transformation

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.

A series of important laws were promulgated by the Reich yesterday, one of the chief being the State banking legislation.

Supervision of the State banks has now been transferred to the Reich, the Reich Economic Minister now being empowered by the new law to take all the necessary measures to transform State bank organisation and adapt it to the practical necessities of the times. — Trans-Ocean Service.

LEAGUE OBLIGATIONS

It has been stated over and over again by British spokesmen that His Majesty's Government are actuated entirely by their conception of their obligations under the League Covenant. As was pointed out by the Prime Minister, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, in his speech at Bournemouth recently this is obvious from the fact that the Government has never had any intention of taking individual action against Italy. They have repeatedly insisted that if risks for peace have to be run they must be run by all. Action for security must be collective.

Britain has never suggested, as some Italian newspapers have implied, military sanctions or the blockade or closing of the Suez Canal, and at Geneva the British delegation has done no more in collaboration with the other nations than is dictated by the position of Britain as a loyal member of the League, one of the great Powers, members of the League Council, and a country with large interests and wide experience in economic and financial affairs. — British Wireless Service.

In this connection considerable attention has been aroused by the report of the Paris correspondent of the semi-official Giornale d'Italia last night, which declared that M. Laval was still continuing his conversations with the object of starting negotiations and that there are some indications that the efforts are now taking a favourable turn.

This is considered to be significant in view of the fact that up to now the Italian press has represented M. Laval's endeavours as having absolutely no prospects of success.

SURPRISE POSTPONEMENT

Geneva: After a two and a half hours' session yesterday afternoon, the economic sub-committee had still failed to reach a definite decision. It was finally agreed to draw up a draft resolution that the respective Governments be asked to communicate by October 28 what economic sanctions they are prepared to enforce, which is tantamount to postponing the practical effects of the sanctions for a fortnight.

The sub-committee proposed that a boycott of Italian goods be put in force at the same time as the prohibitions. The question was discussed how goods on the prohibited list could be prevented from reaching Italy. — Trans-Ocean Service.

The present phase of the committee's labours is expected to end to-day, if an agreement can be reached on the other points. In any case the session of the Committee of Eighteen, as well as the Plenary Conference, has been announced for to-day.

The tin can postal service has come to an end.

For nearly 15 years brown-skinned natives gladly consented to swim the treacherous stretch of sea between lonely Tin Can Island, in the Tonga group, and mail-steamer passing through the South Seas.

Recently the natives demanded the equivalent of $10 per swim per man. The market was not there and as result the s.s. Mariposa has arrived here with the last of the letters from the harbourless, reef-bound island, situated 2,600 miles south-west of Hawaii.

The letter reads: "Kindest regards from the last day of tin can mail, Niaufo Island, Tonga W. G. Quensell, T. C. M. Man." Niaufo, or Tin Can Island, gained fame for its postal service by means of the tin can. The natives would swim nearly a mile to the ships' sides, pushing before them a tin can containing letters for the outside world and attached to a log. They delivered letters to the island in the same way.

The island is sparsely inhabited by natives and white copra traders. — Reuter.

ENGLISH TEACHER OF SINGING

Merit Recognised In Salzburg

Salzburg.

Singing lessons by Madame Mildmay-Cappiani, the well-known English teacher, will for the first time be a feature of the summer school for conductors and musicians held here during August under the auspices of the Mozart Academy.

Professor Paumbartner, Herr Bruno Walter and Sir Henry Wood are members of the Academy Council, and the services of eminent musicians from many countries have again been secured for the school. — Reuter.

COPPER VERBOTEN

FURTHER RESTRICTIONS IN GERMANY

Berlin.

Further restrictions on the use of copper are announced by the official Neutscher Reichsanzeiger.

It is now forbidden to use copper for certain forms of high tension cables and wires, for wireless aerials and lightning conductors, and for a wide range of electrical fittings.

The use of lead for insulating piping is also forbidden in certain cases. — Reuter.

NEW MEMBER FOR TOKYO "BRAIN-TRUST"

Mr. M. Obura, director general of the Sumitomo Goshi Kaisha, has been formally appointed a member of the National Policy Council, Japan's "brain trust," in succession to Mr. K. Mochizuki, who has been appointed Minister of Communications.

Geneva: The Soviet-Russian Government has notified the League of Nations that it will execute financial sanctions against Italy. The Swedish, Soviet-Russian, and Uruguayan Governments have accepted the proposal to forbid the export of weapons to Italy.

The Dutch Foreign Minister declared here yesterday that his Government would accept all the sanctions proposals passed by the League of Nations. — Trans-Ocean Service.
